Vol. 79 No. 27 Wednesday, July 7, 1971 10¢

ACCORDING TO THE San Francisco Bay Area Council there is an "average" Bay Area resident.

The Council operates for a nine county area in which there are 91 incorporated cities, ranging from Hercules, in Contra Costa County, with a population of 252, to San Francisco, with 715,864.

Recently the Council reviewed 13,000 data items in "The Bay Area '70 Census Series", a presentation of the 1970 census findings, and found that one person "appeared most frequently" in the analysis.

It turned out to be a woman, 28 years old, married and white; she lives with two others in a family-owned home valued at $26,115.

That was SF Bay Area Council's capsule profile of the "average" Bay Area resident.

Of course, the Council people hasten to add that there is really no such thing as an "average person."

But the averages, medians and statistics in general at least afford some sort of a basic picture, they claim, that exist between the communities.

So now you know.

If you happen to be a woman, 28 years old, married and white, living in a family-owned house valued at $26,115 with two others, you are the average person for the Bay Area.

We wonder how many meet that criteria in the Campbell area?

IN ADDITION TO REvealing the average person, the Bay Area Council submitted eight separate news releases that had been developed from the study covering various phases of life in the nine-counties.

Such subjects as population change, race, age, marital status, and factors relating to housing are included in the eight stories.

Some of the data makes interesting reading. But we could not find a single instance where Campbell was singled out in any special category.

One might say that Campbell has a cloak of anonymity as far as the census figures studied were concerned.

That could mean that this community is average all the way.

Or it could mean something else.

-0-

FOR EXAMPLE, CAMPbell's population has doubled in the past 10 years.

But 19 cities of the 91 in the Bay Area also have that distinction.

Surprisingly we noted that Cupertino, Milpitas and Los Gatos were among the 10 cities that grew the fastest during the Sixties.

And there were nine cities, including Oakland and San Francisco and again, surprisingly, Menlo Park, that lost residents during the 10-year span.

San Francisco lost 24,642 people in 10 years, representing 77% of the total decline among the nine cities.

The overall region increased in population by 27% during the decade.

-0-

IN THE REPORT ON marital factors, Campbell did not gain any reported separate distinction, good or bad.

San Francisco, for example, had the smallest proportion of married persons, while the five cities with the highest proportion of married residents are all located in the East Bay.

Los Altos Hills, by the way, recorded the smallest proportions of divorced or separated persons while Sausalito had the highest percentage in that category.

COUNCIL ACTS NEXT MONDAY

City projects total $284,000

Contracts affecting the new civic center complex totalling approximately $284,000, depending on bids to be received this week, are scheduled to be awarded by the City Council next Monday night, July 12.

The Council will meet for the first time next Monday in the new council chambers of the city hall. "Moving day" is set for this Friday, July 9, when the moving company at 4 p.m. starts the big shift.

The police department will be the first to relocate. City hall employees this week were busily packing boxes to facilitate the move. Some of the employees are expected to be on hand on Saturday to straighten out their new quarters. The old city hall is expected to be entirely clear on Friday evening.

It is estimated that the old city hall, the former Congregational Church, will go under the demolition hammer within 30 days.

City officials point out that a new regulation has been adopted for the new building, including a no smoking ban for the council chambers.

The biggest civic center project that the Council will have on the agenda next Monday will be the street improvement job, which includes the proposed "north loop" as well as the widening and improving of Third, Grant, Central and Second.

Bids for that project estimated at $176,000 will be opened this Friday, July 9.

Bids for the landscaping contract estimated at $40,000 are to be opened on Thursday. Tuesday (after press time) bids for furnishings were opened. The Council has budgeted $68,000 for furnishings.

Next Monday also the Council may decide what to do about the 1937 pumper fire engine that has not been used by the city for almost 10 years.

Fire Chief George Maxwell had suggested that it be donated to Madero in Mexico. He was directed by the Coun-

IN CAMPBELL SCHOOL DISTRICT

Family Life Education again becomes target

Family Life Education (FLE), a course of study used as an elective program in the seventh and eighth grades in the Campbell Union (elementary) School District during the past year, should be extended for grades four through six in the 1972-73 school year.

And a minimal program should be operational in each school from Kindergarten through the third grade by 1974-75.

That was the recommendation of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on FLE submitted to the trustees last Thursday night.

But the opponents to the program, who vigorously objected to it last year, when it was first instituted into the school system after many open discussions on the controversial issue have not yet given up.

Filed at the same time as the report of the entire committee was a "minority report" drafted by Mrs. Judy Ruscigno, a member of the school board who also served on the citizen's committee.

Mrs. Ruscigno, in her report which she read into the record, took issue with many phases of the program, emphasizing particularly that, in her opinion, it did not meet the "elective" criteria.

She questioned whether there was a need for such a program in the lower grades and submitted that the original "demand" did not represent a majority viewpoint.

A number of school principals in the audience indicated they would like to reply to some of the statements made by Mrs. Ruscigno.

Bob Renfer, a member of the committee, also took the floor to emphasize that Mrs. Ruscigno was reflecting her own opinions in her report and the interpretation of some of the points raised by her was questionable.

He emphasized also that the citizen's report was not done in a casual manner, but all material was reviewed.

It was pointed out by Dr. Richard MacQuiddy, who had been reelected board president earlier in the evening, that the board was not adopting the report that night, but merely receiving it for study; he felt that the discussion should be limited.

After several false starts, a motion was passed unanimously by the board specifying that both the majority and minority reports had been received for study. It was also voted to disband the citizen's committee.

It was added that Jim D'Avis, acting superintendent, would confer with various principals as to any additional information that should be considered before action was taken.

A full report on the entire FLE matter would be ready for board action at the September meeting, D'Avis said.

Women board members oppose new counselors

Seven full-time counselors for the seventh and eighth graders in the Campbell Union District starting next fall were approved by trustees last Thursday by a 3-2 vote with the two women members of the board, Mrs. Judy Ruscigno and Mrs. Eleanor Graham-Armstrong, opposing the action.

In the past counseling chores have been handled on a part-time basis by teachers or administrators. Jim D'Avis, acting superintendent, had recommended the step with the support of the teachers' groups. Rolling Hills and Campbell schools will have two counselors while Monroe, Cypress and Blackford will have one each.

The board also approved by a unanimous vote modifications to the insurance plans for both classified and certified employees. Long-term disability will now be covered by the program for certified employees and prescriptions and vision services were added for the classified groups.

Although the employees groups had advocated the changes, spokesmen for the teachers' groups objected to the board's action at this time, because it could affect the overall salary-negotiating package.

The board last Thursday also approved the payment of annual dues in the California School Board's Association for $1122.

Group to study tax vote data

A committee composed of representatives from the board, administration, employee groups and citizens is to be formed to study all the aspects of a tax election for the Campbell Union (elementary) School District before the end of the fiscal year.

The trustees last Thursday approved the recommendation of Jim D'Avis, acting superintendent, that such a committee be appointed by the board president (Dr. Richard MacQuiddy) and D'Avis.

Unless the electorate approves the present $2.55 or vote an increase, on July 1, 1972, the tax rate for the district will drop to $1.80 per $100 assessed valuation. An election, therefore, D'Avis said is necessary during the 1971-72 school year.

City gets funds for new traffic safety program

Campbell is to have a traffic safety program of preventive engineering and preventive enforcement that will cost $66,730 to install, but there will be no charge to the city, according to Police Captain Don Burr, acting police chief.

Burr reported that the program will be funded by the federal and state governments. The federal outlay will be $39,784 and the state's share will be $26,946.

Burr said that the primary objective is the reduction in traffic accidents and injuries. Eastman Kodaks Miracode Microfilm Information Retrieval System has been selected for the program which will provide complete, accurage, statistical information on accident reports in seconds.

It will pinpoint accident prone areas and traffic problems, provide information for use in selective enforcement and provide a permanent record with archival storage.

Burr adds that such questions as how many accidents in Campbell was sobriety a factor; was speed involved and what was the violation, will be answered.

In addition, road conditions, characteristics and traffic controls, important in traffic enforcement, will be answered.

HEADS HIGH SCHOOL BOARD---Vern Rutlen, of 12420 Radoyka Dr., Saratoga, has been elected chairman of the Campbell Union High School board of trustees, succeeding E.M. (Doc) Arends, who served as board head for 10 years. Arends did not seek reelection as trustee this year. Mrs. Dorothy Goble was named vice-chairman and William L. Murphy, clerk.

Rutlen, who has been a member of the board since 1964, is past president of the Santa Clara County School Boards Association, and is on the county committee for school district reorganization, and is also a member of West Valley College citizens' advisory committee.

Five banks bid on city bonds

Park and street improvement bonds for the City of Campbell totalling $720,000 have been purchased by Security Pacific National Bank for a bid of 5.8809% interest for the 15-years.

Five bids, all below the maximum of 6%, were submitted, ranging from the low of 5.8809% to a high of 5.995%. Bank of America, according to Jeff Whittaker, city finance director, was a close second with 5.8894%.

Other bidders were Crocker-Citizens, United California Bank and Wells Fargo. Whittaker said that there was a difference of $7,776.50 between the low and top bids.

The first payment by the city will be on July 1, 1972 and Whittaker explains that the proposed city tax rate allows for the payment. Whittaker said also that in the 15-year period the interest on the bonds would total $398,435.

NEW DEPARTMENT---Staff members of the Campbell Post Office salute the flag raised by West Valley Post, American Legion, last week, to signify that the U. S. Post Office is now the U. S. Postal Service.

The postal employees conducted open house all day and musical entertainment was provided by local high school youth. A small but interested group of onlookers witnessed the brief ceremony.

BUSINESS CLIMBS IN FIRST THREE MONTHS

Retail sales for Campbell in first quarter top 1970 by $1.5 million

Sales of merchandise subject to the sales tax in Campbell during the first quarter this year topped the same quarter of a year ago by almost $1.5 million, according to the State Board of Equalization.

Taxable sales for the quarter ending March 31 this year, totalled $14,502,000 compared to $13,044,000 for the same period in 1970.

However, the first quarter sales in Campbell were down, as usual, from the fourth quarter of 1970 which totalled $15,320,000.

Los Gatos suffered during the fourth quarter last year, when sales were only $13,941,000. But that town staged a comeback during the first quarter this year with $14,702,000 in sales compared to $13,834,000 for the first period in 1970, or a gain of $868,000.

In Los Gatos during the first quarter this year a spurt in auto sales accounted for $7,430,000, more than one half of the total of all sales in that town.

Campbell, without an auto agency, had $109,000 credited to auto supplies this year and $129,000 last year.

BIG INCREASE

It was in the category of "general merchandise" that Campbell showed the greatest proportionate gain this year. During the first quarter in 1970, that division accounted for only $178,000 in sales, while this year it reached $714,000.

Home furnishings, almost always the leader in the taxable sales derby in Campbell, again led the parade in the first quarter with $2,503,000 as compared to $2,412,000 during the same period in 1970.

In second place, as usual, was "building materials" with $1,983,000 during the first three months this year. However, it was only a gain of $7000 over 1970.

DECREASES

There were a few categories in Campbell's taxable sales that showed a decrease for the first quarter this year from that of the previous year.

For example, "apparel stores" in the first quarter of 1970 accounted for $267,000 in sales while this year the figure was 225,000. There were 11 such stores reporting in 1970, while in 1971 there were 14.

Taxable sales for gas stations dropped this year in the first quarter with less stations reporting.

In 1970 for the first quarter, 47 gas stations in town did $232,000 in taxable sales compared to only 41 this year doing $221,000.

By one of those strange quirks, the sales for drug stores for the first quarter in 1970, and for the same three months in 1971 came out the same, at $270,000. This year only nine stores were listed, and in 1970 there were 10.

There were two less eating places in Campbell in 1971 as opposed to 1970, but the sales registered in that category were up this year. In 1970 the sales reported came to $1,007,000, while this year the 53 eating places accounted for $1,292,000.

According to the report, the 20 food stores in town this year did $1,450,000 in taxable sales, while last year there were 21 stores doing $1,121,000.

There were two more packaged liquor stores this year in town than last, and the 11 this year did $480,000 in taxable sales, while last year nine did $454,000.

TOTAL SALES

Los Gatos topped Campbell by $200,000 in total sales for the first quarter this year ($14,702,000 to $14,502,000), but Cupertino is the city in the county that has moved ahead in taxable sales in recent years. Cupertino is pressing both Campbell and Los Gatos for top honors among the smaller cities in the county.

Cupertino gained $5,851,000 this year over last year going from $8,434,000 in 1970 to $14,285,000.

Incidentally, Mountain View and Palo Alto (along with Monte Sereno) were the only ones of the 15 cities in Santa Clara County to show a drop in taxable sales this year from last year.

Mountain View had $42,354,000 in 1970 and $41,180,000 in 1971 and Palo Alto dropped from $54,127,000 in 1970 to $51,685,000.

Monte Sereno reported $11,000 in total sales for the first quarter in 1971 compared to $12,000 for the same period this year.

Other cities and their taxable sales for the first quarter in 1971 were: Los Altos, $9,254,000; Milpitas, $6,108,000; Morgan Hill, $2,515,000; Gilroy, $7,361,000; Saratoga, $2,794,000; Los Altos Hills, $290,000; Sunnyvale, $44,487,000; Santa Clara, $58,701,000 and San Jose, $197,880,000.

Editorial

It's a big event

For three days next month (August 12-13-14), the division tournament for the Little League will be held at the Little League field at Rosemary School.

It is an honor for the local Little League to be chosen as host for Division 2. We sincerely hope that the community will respond and support the Campbell Little League officials in their efforts to make the tournament an outstanding event.

We are confident that the Little League people of Campbell will do an efficient job in conducting the tournament which will draw teams from Fresno to the Oregon line.

The local league over the years has gained an enviable reputation in the "circuit" and is rated as one of the most successful Little League operations in the entire area.

The adults who conduct the league affairs are dedicated people and have by hard work attained a smoothly run operation that is the envy of other is that Campbell will be host to the division tournament on August 12-13-14, and teams from Fresno to the Oregon line will come to town.

This community spontaneously last year showed its appreciation of the record made by the Campbell team (runners-up for the worlds championship is a tremendous honor) and we sincerely hope that the community will exhibit the same kind of support for the division tournament.

Campbell, of course, as the champions of the entire western region of the United States last year, will be more or less on the spot this year.

We are certain the Little Leaguers representing Campbell will act as champions.

We sincerely hope that the community next month will respond in a similar manner and show the visitors leagues in the area that have been less fortunate in obtaining support and supervision.

We are confident that the tournament will be efficiently run. We think it behooves all of us, however, who recognize the value of this activity for the youngsters, to show our support in a tangible manner when the division tournament takes place here on August 12-13-14.

Obviously there is another incentive for the community to support the three-day division tournament. The Campbell Little League all-star aggregation last year went all the way to the top and played in the finals for the world championship in Williamsport, Pa.

As you know, one loss eliminates a team in the long, long trek to the world series and, of course, the division championship is an important rung up the ladder.

The teams that meet in the division championship obviously have already proved their capabilities on the diamond, and thus the caliber of ball that will be played in the tournament here next month will be exciting as well as high quality.

You recall, of course, the close games that the Campbell team played and won on the way to Williamsport. The local players were tabbed the "Cardiac Kids" because of the heart-stopping, thrilling battles that took place.

Obviously no one can tell at this stage of the game how the Campbell entry in the tournament grind will fare this year.

The record made last year was one that will be difficult to repeat and thus, it is conceivable, that the Campbell team this year might not even make the division playoffs.

Whatever the record of the local team really is not the point, although, naturally, we will all be hoping that the kids will duplicate their performance of last year.

What is important from the community standpoint to this area that Campbell is proud of its Little League.

The division tournament is a big event for those involved in Little League affairs.

Let's help make it a big event for the community.

Remember the dates, August 12-13-14.

MORE ABOUT

Newark, in Alameda County, recorded the lowest median age with 19.6, while at the other extreme, the 2,332 residents of Yountville in Napa County have a median age of 66.

Milpitas with a median age of 20.5, San Jose with 23.9 and Gilroy with 24.0 were among the 10 "youngest" cities.

No Santa Clara County city made the top 10 in the high median age. Five of the higher ages were in Napa and Sonoma counties while the next five in that category are among the region's most affluent communities, such as Hillsborough, and Burlingame in San Mateo County, Belvedere in Marin and Piedmont in Alameda County.

The median age for Santa Clara County is 25.2.

"MEDIAN", as you probably know, is not the average but sort of the center with as many above as below.

Therefore in the housing category, you might be interested to learn that the Santa Clara County's median value for single-family houses was $27,300 compared to the average for the nine-county area of $26,115.

In sort of an awe-struck way, we noted that 97% of the single-family housing in Hillsborough in San Mateo County topped the $50,000 figure with a median of $62,100.

Incidentally, Los Altos Hills in this county has a median of $60,000.

Hillsborough tops the list in median rents with $320, while Hercules, a small "company town" in Contra Costa County had a median rent of $48.

The median rent in Santa Clara County is $143.

-0-

THERE ARE OTHER INteresting revelations in the report.

Cupertino and Milpitas increased their number of housing units over the 10-year period by 404% and 344% respectively, while San Jose and Sunnyvale reported the greatest numerical increases in housing units in the 10 years at 67,356 and 16,262 respectively.

As we pointed out in the beginning, Campbell apparently didn't make either the top 10 or bottom 10 lists in any category of the 91 cities in the Bay Area, in this study by the San Francisco Bay Area Council.

So you can draw your own conclusions.

-0-

IT'S A GUARANTEE NOT a loan.

We are referring to that $250 million that Lockheed needs.

Jim Chapman, a Campbell resident and a Lockheed employee, suggested that the news story last week didn't make the point clear that Lockheed was asking the federal government, under pressure from British interests, to guarantee the loan of $250 million which, apparently, the banks will underwrite.

He thought a lot of people had the impression that the government was being asked to shell out the dough and that really is not the case. The government is being asked to back it up.

The issue is now before the banking committee of the U. S. Senate. The Campbell City Council, as well as a number of other councils in the area, have forwarded resolutions to that committee urging approval of the guarantee.

Admittedly we are out of our depth in discussing an astronomical fiscal situation such as the Lockheed case.

We concede, however, that it should be made clear that Lockheed is asking for a loan guarantee instead of an outright loan.

We are sympathetic to that mammoth firm in another way, for we have found that we have a common bond.

That is the problem of keeping the doors open.

It is merely a matter of relativity.

WRONG GORDON---MRS. Eleanor Graham-Armstrong, clerk of the Campbell Union School District board, at the board meeting last week, had to retract a compliment she paid Gordon Martin, leader of the teachers' union of the district.

In her capacity as clerk, Eleanor read aloud a letter to the board lauding Jim Gilliland for his services as trustee of the district.

After finishing, she indicated to Gordon Martin, who was sitting in the front row, that she agreed with the sentiments expressed so well by Martin in the letter.

Martin hastily assured Eleanor that he had not written it and obviously it was not his viewpoint.

Eleanor looked again. She hadn't checked the last name. The letter was from GORDON ABBOTT.

It has been pretty well established that the only similarity between the two is their same first name.

Couldn't we work something in here about "Gordon not"?

Or is that "Gordian Knot"?

-0-

CHANGED---WE HAD TO look a couple of times at the last school board meeting before it dawned on us that it wasn't a stranger sitting at the board table in place of Dr. Richard MacQuiddy, board president.

It really was MacQuiddy. But his appearance had changed.

He had undertaken his own special brush clearance program.

He had shaved off his beard.

Any of you who might be contemplating growing a beard, should first take a look at the "new" MacQuiddy sans beard.

You might have second thoughts on the matter, beardwise, that is.

Letters to the Editor

ABOUT JUNKETS

Dear George,

Your "Out on The Limb" article (June 23, 1971) complimenting Councilmen Chamberlin and Podgorsek for their budget stand was not deserved.

As the same case last year, these two councilmen voted to delete funds from the budget designated for councilmen's expenses to attend either the National League of Cities Convention or the Legislative Conference. As last year, they lost by a 3-2 vote.

While Chamberlin and Podgorsek make a big show of trying to cut expenditures, their actions afterward are different.

Last year and prior years, Chamberlin attended the Convention after first spearheading attempts to delete those expense funds from the budget. If Chamberlin feels that the city will not benefit from his attendance at the Convention, then he should not go. Perhaps his arguments at the next budget would be more convincing.

Councilman Podgorsek's actions are even more ridiculous. Last year, after voting with Chamberlin to delete the convention expense funds from the budget, he attended the Little League World series at the expense of the city.

Since funds were not even budgeted for this trip, one must wonder if anyone is concerned about how the city's money is spent.

Since you Mr. Vierhus, were doing further research on situations in Campbell applicable to the definition of a "Junket", these examples may help. I think they better fit the definition of a hypocrite.

Candlelight vows for Carol and Bruce

On June 13, Paul Bruce Kemp, claimed Carol Jeanne Becht as his bride at Saint Andrew's Episcopal Church of Saratoga, with the Reverend Roy W. Strasburger officiating at the evening candlelight double ring ceremony.

Paul is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bruce Kemp of Campbell, and Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Becht of Saratoga.

For her wedding, Carol chose a gown of organza over silk with a scooped neckline, full long sleeves and a long train. The bodice was covered with sprays of flowers appliqued.

The same appliques were placed at the bottom of the skirt and train and the half Juliet cap was covered with the appliques which held the cathedral length veil. The same appliques were placed on the veil from top to hemline. The bride's bouquet was 24 butterfly orchids and stephanotis. Her flowers and all the orchids for the bouquets, boutonniers, and pew flowers were shipped from Hawaii by Carol's roommate at college.

The bridesmaids wore long dresses with full long sleeves of embroidered white lace over pale blue crepe and carried orchids and asters. The maid of honor wore embroidered white lace over pale green crepe.

The bride chose Miss Janet Scafani, a former roommate of Fremont, as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were two sisters of the groom, the Misses Sandra and Linda Kemp; sister of the bride, Miss Debbie Becht, and Miss Mary Jane McCormack, of Metuchen, New Jersey, a cousin of the bride.

Carol had also chosen her sister, Mrs. Harvard Holley, of Boulder, Colorado as a bridesmaid, but she was unable to attend.

Joseph David Ross, of San Jose, served as best man. Ushers were Robert Kemp, James Raphael, James McDonald and Mark Bishop.

David Becht, brother of the bride, was crucifer and led the wedding processional.

A champagne buffet reception was held at the parish hall of the church where some 350 people were greeted by the bride and groom.

The wedding cake was adorned with a hand-blown glass bride and groom and decorated with blue and white flowers to go with the blue and white decor of the wedding and reception. Following the reception the couple went to Hawaii for a honeymoon.

They will establish their first home in San Jose.

Carol is a graduate of Westmont High School and a senior at Chico State College where she is working for her BS and RN in Nursing. She is doing her student nursing at Travis Air Force Base and will graduate in January of 1972.

Paul attended Camden High School, San Jose State College and University of Santa Clara Law School. He is presently employed as an associate in the law offices of Morgan, Beauzay and Hammer in San Jose.

The Council is also expected to act on the request of Dale Scott, chairman of the Planning Commission, whose term expires on August 1, that he be reappointed to the Commission.

A progress report on the library situation will be made by City Manager Bob Stephens.

At a recent study session with the supervisors, the cities in the county library district, requested an acceleration in the building program for the branch libraries, including Campbell's.

The cities have suggested a 2-cent hike in the library tax to get the proposed buildings off the ground. Supervisor Ralph Mehrkens has agreed with the cities' proposal, but the other board members indicated they preferred to wait until the final budget for the library system has been prepared.

GIRL SCOUT News

Junior Girl Scout Troop 63 held a Court of Awards at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alexander, 151 Coventry Dr., recently.

Five of the troop members, all sixth graders, were honored upon completion of five years in scouting, two of them in Brownies and three in Junior Scouting.

The five were further honored because they achieved a fete not normally accomplished by young scouts---the completion of all 47 proficiency badges, along with two special awards, Sign of the Arrow and Sign of the Star.

The five girls, who are led by Mrs. Ann Jeffrey and Mrs. Jean Bendanelli, are Jill Alexander, Jodene Hurt, Mary Jeffrey and Kathy West, who attended Coventry School and Lori Lawson, who attended St. Lucy's.

To honor the girls, the troop presented each with a plaque inscribed "Outstanding Achievement in Girl Scouting, 1968-1971", plus the girl's name. They were also given a five year guard pin to wear attached to their regular Girl Scout pin.

All the sixth grade girls of the troop were presented with graduation corsages of green and white carnations with a yellow ribbon. Six of the seven sixth grade girls in the troop plan to continue onto the next phase of scouting as Cadettes.

The ceremony was attended by parents of the troop, relatives and guests.

WOODS BECOME GRANDPARENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wood, 411 N. Carlyn Ave., became first - time grandparents recently when their daughter, Mrs. Randy (Toni, Campbell High '64) Anderson presented them with a granddaughter, Shelly Ann.

Mrs. Wood is celebrating grandmothership by taking her mother, Mrs. Anna Tonelli, and jetting to Frankfort, Germany, to visit her son, Sp. 5 Bill Wood (Campbell High '68) and then on to Rome to visit friends.

"Grandpa" Ed Wood, a plastering contractor, and Ron (Campbell High '70) are staying home.

Job's Daughters

NEW QUEEN

Miss Alice Mackay was installed recently as Honored Queen of Campbell Bethel 174, International Order of Job's Daughters.

Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. LaMar S. Mackay, she succeeds Miss Andrea Macer, who conducted the installation.

The ceremony, the 48th bethel installation of officers and choir, was held at the Santa Clara Masonic Temple.

Installed as senior princess was Jenni Johnson; Cherie Stephenson is junior princess. The other new elective officers are Carol Barrett, guide, and Tori Bruner, marshal.

Master of ceremonies was Floyd E. Munson, a Master Mason of Charity Lodge 362, Campbell.

Mrs. Onnalee Larson, Bethel Guardian, and George Larson, Associate Bethel Guardian, opened the ceremonies. Also present at the installation was Mrs. Lois Pezzaglia, Deputy Grand Guardian.

Soloist was Paul Cocking, who sang "An Evening Prayer" and "It's a Gay Old World," a poem adopted to music by the incoming Honored Queen.

Miss Mackay's theme was "The Magic Mirror," and the decor of the installation was peach, pink and silver with small mirrors to signify the bright reflections of life and happiness. Incoming officers and choir members carried shiny mirrors bordered with peach and pink ruffles and the new Honored Queen a pink and peach carrying piece with pink satin ribbons and three miniature mirrors at their tips and on top a small white Bible which was presented to her by the Bethel Mother's Club.

Serving as installing officers with Miss Macer were Kathy Corner, Sue McFarland, Debbie and Cindie Stephenson, Jan Walford, Debbie Harris, and Debbie Larson Dean, all past Honored Queens of Bethel 174.

Appointive officers installed were:

Davette Myers, recorder; Candi Clothier, treasurer; Helen Hoen, chaplain; Sylvia Miller, librarian; Pam Thompson, musician; Carolyn Antolin, Gail Shankland, Sandy Reuwsaat, Debbie Horton and Vicki Clothier, messengers; Laurie Silver and Terri Roberts, senior and junior custodians, and Kim Stromner and Nancy Vogel, inner and outer guards.

Marian Krvavica, Joan Levandowski and Dedie Parsons greeted guests, and usherettes were Linda Dyer, Shelda Macer and Margaret Zeek.

A reception and dance followed the installation with music by "Orpheus."

Sue Murrell is new Good Sam employee head

Sue Murrell, 2800 Joseph Ave., is the new chairman of the Employees' Advisory Committee of The Good Samaritan Hospital of Santa Clara Valley, as the result of recent elections. She is a central service department clerk.

First activity of the group under Mrs. Murrell's leadership will be the annual employees' picnic at Frontier Village.

The Employees' Advisory Committee is made up of representatives from each of the departments. Traditional activities include a variety show, a dance, and a children's Christmas party. Currently the EAC is selling a cookbook made up of recipes contributed by employees.

It is also an advisory committee, serving as a liaison between employees and administration.

The two other employees elected to office with Mrs. Murrell are Pam Blauvelt, recreational therapist, a Santa Claran who is vice-chairman; and Kim Jackson, medical records secretary, a Cupertino resident who is secretary.

Scouts help with bike licensing

The Campbell Police Department, in its continuing effort to license bicycles, has been given the assistance of area Boy Scouts.

Several members of Troop 318, under the direction of Paul Daily, have volunteered to assist the program.

The boys who are doing licensing will be wearing their uniforms and carrying identification supplied by the police department, according to Capt. Larry Kelly.

Working in teams, the one boy will first notify the neighborhood of their availability and then the teammate will return to license the bikes and collect the $1 license fee.

Bicycles licenses in Campbell DO NOT EXPIRE, but are usable as long as the bike has not changed ownership. Change of ownership registration is 50¢

In addition to licenses, the scouts will carry tools to stamp numbers into the bicycle frame if needed.

The licensing program will start July 14 and continue until September 1.

French-Ferguson vows at St. Lucy's

MRS. WILLIAM FERGUSON

Doris Agnes French became the bride of William Vincent Ferguson during the afternoon ceremony performed by Reverend William T. O'Keeffe at St. Lucy's Church, Campbell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert French of Denver, Colorado and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ferguson of San Jose, California.

For her wedding, the bride chose a long-sleeved gown of white embroidered peu de soie trimmed with lace and wore a seed pearl and satin shoulder length veil. She carried a cascade of white roses.

Miss Debbie French of Clifton, Colorado was her aunt's maid of honor. Richard Ferguson of San Jose stood with the bridegroom as his brother's best man.

Following a wedding trip to Southern California, the newlyweds will establish a home in Campbell.

The new Mrs. Ferguson was employed at St. Lucy's rectory, Campbell. Her husband is employed by Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, Sunnyvale.

Frogs jump for kids in contest

Campbell had its own unheralded jumping frog contest recently at San Tomas Village on San Tomas Aquino Rd.

According to Bill Bennett of Village West Barber Shop, he and other merchants in the area wanted to do something for the children of the area.

For several months Bennett queried the children in the neighborhood for ideas. Everything from chipmunk races to hamster races were suggested, he said, but each suggestion presented a problem.

Finally one of the girls in the neighborhood told of seeing the Calaveras Jumping Frog contest.

So, after much deliberation, Bennett decided to hold a similar contest, limited entirely to children.

All kinds of "jumping critters" showed up for the race, including a rabbit, which was disqualified.

Fifty-nine entrants participated in the noon activity. And when the jumping was over, "Fred Smart the Frog" owned by Stacey Smart, 1030 Linda Dr., and "Clide Dawson the Frog" owned by Tracy Dawson, 1025 Linda Dr., were declared first and second place winners.

First prize, donated by Bennett, was a savings bond, while second place was given a $10 prize donated by Hank Santoro, who, according to Bennett, has been a strong supporter of recreational endeavors for the neighborhood youngsters.

Was the frog jump a success?

Well, the date of the next jump has already been announced. June 21, 1972. Closing date for entries, June 19.

Start practicing, frogs!

Survival Expert and Three Sons Test the 'Impossible' Desert

Former Desert Explorers Club President Paul DuPre, and his three sons, Peter, 21, Phillip, 20, and Kurt, 19, chose one of the most wildly remote parts of the North American Great Outdoors for their 7000 mile vacation trip . . . in an All-Wheel Drive International Scout into the Baja California desert of Mexico.

Carrying their gasoline, water, and spare parts with them, and living almost entirely on the resources of the land, the four dined on rattlesnake, cactus, jackrabbit and lizard as they pushed their way across "impossible" terrain where even wild cattle die.

Only a compass and a Zenith Trans-Oceanic 11-band radio linked them to civilization.

It was simply a pleasant family jaunt to the DuPre's, who thought nothing of abandoning even the few dirt roads along the barren 1100 kilometer peninsula that juts into the Pacific below the California-Mexico border.

Paul DuPre, a WW II desert soldier with the British Eighth Army in Africa, started his career as a survival expert after escaping from Afrika Corps capture and living five days in the Sahara, trapping lizards for food and drinking dew collected at night in a scrap of canvas.

Since then, the now Chicago-based DuPre has taught desert survival to men of the United States Air Force. Having also passed on his knowledge to his sons, he conceived the idea of driving from Chicago to the Baja, and back, as an excellent vacation plan and as a means of testing the performance of the Scout under those conditions.

His sons were quick to accept his plan. As Peter says, he believes today's generation is just as tough and rugged as were the young men of twenty-five years ago. He and his brothers were delighted at the opportunity to prove their contention.

Result? An ideal Great Outdoors vacation — by DuPre standards—and a happy return on schedule to Chicago, with few difficulties, and only a few pounds lost by the members of the rugged two-generation party.

Kurt DuPre's lowering of a canteen from atop the four-wheel drive International Scout vehicle signals a mid-afternoon pause on the parched mountainous spine of Baja California. Midwesterner Paul DuPre, WW II desert commando, and his three survival-trained sons, Peter (at wheel), Kurt and Philip, chose this adventure for their two-week summer vacation.

Recreational Vehicles Offer Family Wide Choice

Five Types Provide Versatility To Cope With Every Outdoor Vacation Requirement

No matter what the size of your family, whether you're a weekend camper, a hunter, fisherman, or plan an extended vacation in the Great Outdoors, International Harvester offers a recreational vehicle especially for you.

Today's Scout All-Wheel Drive sport/utility vehicles, camper pickups, trailer-towing Travelall Wagons, and motor homes will get you there in the style you choose.

International Harvester is one of the foremost motor vehicle manufacturers for the recreational market. Based on years of experience in providing families with recreational vehicles, IH offers the following guide to selecting the vehicle that's right you:

For the small family, the limited budget, or the short stay in the Great Outdoors, choose a pickup such as the 1110, fitted with a "shell" or "poncho" top consisting of a simple weatherproof cover over the pickup bed.

Sleeps Six

For heavier duty, or for carrying a full-scale camper insert that can sleep six with kitchen and bathroom facilities, choose a heavier-rated pickup such as the 1210 with camper package.

For trailering with one of today's big, roomy travel trailers, IH recommends the 1210 Travelall wagon, which offers seating for six or nine, plenty of space for carrying outboard motors and other gear that you might not want in your trailer, and when equipped with IH's trailer-towing package has the unique ability to tow up to five tons of trailer.

For those who desire a touch of luxury, both pickups and Travelalls can be selected with passenger-car comfort features such as bucket seats, carpeting, AM-FM radio, air conditioning, and color-coordinated interiors.

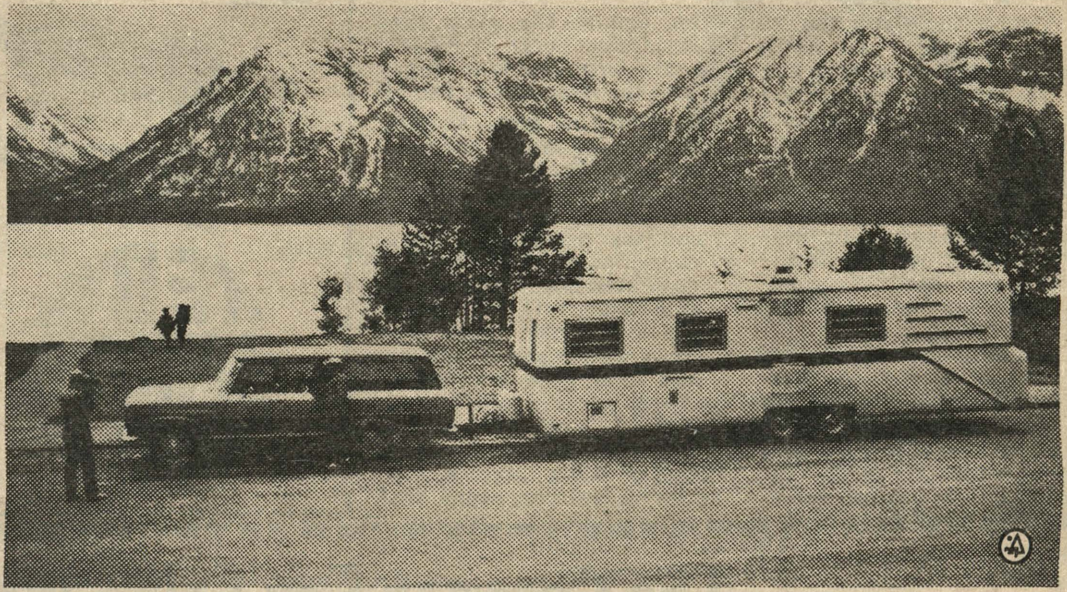
Pickups and Travelalls also offer power brakes and steering, and automatic transmissions especially designed for camper and trailer use.

All Wheel Drive

All-Wheel drive is available in pickups and Travelalls for the family that wants to reach off-road spots.

Also offered with All-Wheel drive is IH's famous Scout 100″ wheelbase go-anywhere vehicle. When so equipped, the Scout can pull a pop-up or tent trailer, and carry a hunting or fishing party, while exploring terrain far off the beaten path. Roof luggage racks, hard or soft tops, bucket seat, carpeting, AM-FM radios, automatic transmission, three engine choices, mechanical or electric winches, and a host of other choices make a vehicle such as the Scout an extremely versatile recreational vehicle for the small group.

The ultimate in self-contained luxury recreation is the motor home.



A combination of the Travelall Wagon and a 31-ft. trailer adds zest to a family's love affair with the Great Outdoors. Besides being a rugged towing vehicle, the Travelall is a distinctive going-into-town car. Up to 10,000 lb. trailers can be handled by the 1210 Travelall Wagon equipped with International's trailer-towing package.

What Campers Can Do to Help Save Environment

"Lovers of the Great Outdoors should recall that true love requires Give as well as Take," says a top official of International Harvester Company.

International is a leading manufacturer of vehicles for recreational use, including camper pickups, Travelall station wagons for trailer-towing, Scout All Wheel drive sport/utility vehicles, and chassis for motor homes.

Richard C. Bakkom, in charge of light truck sales, bases his statement on International's interest in the proper use of its vehicles.

"At International Harvester, we have done our best to provide vehicles that offer maximum pollution control as well as outstanding service and reliability," he says. "We feel that we, as well as the many thousands of users of our recreational vehicles, have an obligation toward the environment.

Do's and Don'ts

"With so many families discovering the Great Outdoors for the first time, it's necessary for everyone to review the do's and don'ts of camping enjoyment.

"First, remember that many states and localities, as well as the federal government, regulate camping. These rules vary, so a novice camper's first step should be to acquire one of several good camping guides available.

More and more families are roaming the Great Outdoors — and finding the type of vehicle to match their carefree living needs. Special camper pickup models, such as International's 1210 (right), offer families rugged ability and riding comfort. The Scout All Wheel Drive sport/utility vehicle (left) contributes to the mood of fun, providing power and easy handling whether towing a small trailer or exploring backroad trails.

"A camping guide not only lists sites where recognized campgrounds may be found. It also lists regulations, any fees, and stations for refueling bottled gas containers and disposal of wastes.

"Second, when possible use the listed campsites. They're located and planned to do the best job of providing for your family's enjoyment without adversely affecting the ecology of the Great Outdoors.

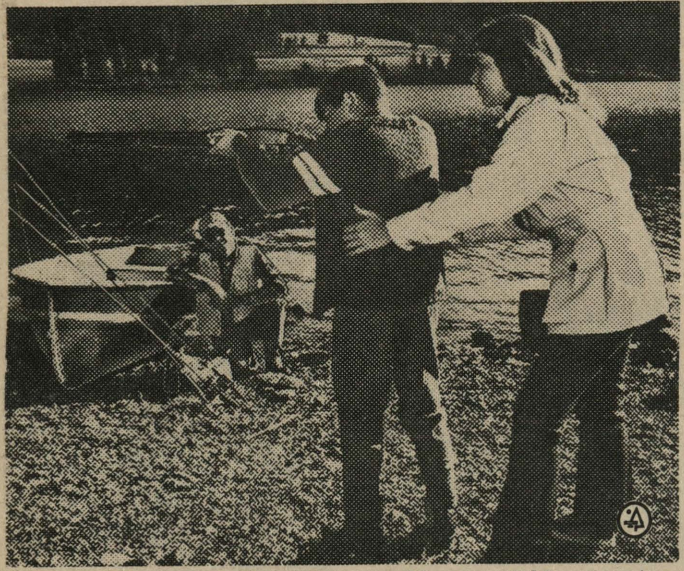
"Third, if you select your own campsite, off any designated campground, remember that you automatically take on added responsibilities.

"Be sure you're not trespassing. And remember to leave your site as you would like to find it. But there's more to meeting your share of the outdoors obligation than just making sure you don't leave trash behind.

"For instance, the thoughtful camper doesn't leave his garbage behind in a pit or strewn on the ground. He takes his garbage away in an appropriate container, and discards it at a refuse station.

Thoughtful Camper

"The thoughtful camper avoids causing soil erosion. Open fires, for example, leave a permanent ring on the ground — destroying the grass — and leave an open invitation to further carelessness by the next camper.



For more family outdoors fun, combination fishing-camping-shooting is hard to match. Dad's been out fishing while Mom's busily teaching Junior respect for firearms and how to shoot safely and skillfully.

Combining Interests Expands Family Fun

The healthy recreation the average family can enjoy out-of-doors is almost as vast as the outdoors itself. There is, for example, much more family fun to be had outdoors than, say, just fishing and hunting.

On a single excursion a family group can easily combine fishing, boating, shooting and/or hunting, camping, outdoors cooking, hiking, bird watching, etc.

A favorite activity of many sportsmen is the combination fishing-hunting trip. In spring and summer float trips on rivers and streams make it possible to fish for bass, walleyes, panfish and so on, and at the same time hunt woodchucks or crows.

The technique is to simply float the river and to fish all the promising spots, keeping a rifle or shotgun handy but unloaded. When a woodchuck is spotted in some distant meadow the boat is beached and the fisherman — now turned hunter — makes his stalk. Most floaters who combine fishing with crow hunting wait until they hear crows, then beach their boat, find some good cover, and call the crows in with a hand caller. It pays, too, to use the caller occasionally while floating along, because any crow in hearing range will likely respond.

In fall and even part of the early winter many sportsmen float rivers and combine fishing with squirrel, duck or deer hunting—depending on their particular state's fishing and hunting seasons, and on any special conservation department regulations.

In planning a combination fishing-hunting trip be sure that you will not be violating any conservation laws, and also be careful not to trespass on posted lands.

LET HIM GO

When a fish wants to make a run, give him line and let him go. Be certain that the drag on the reel is set properly, then let the fish take line against the tension of the drag. Never try to stop a fish's determined run because the line may break or the hooks pull out.

SAD YARN

Probably more fish are lost while trying to land them than at any other time.

FOR COOKING ONLY

A modern gas range in your camper, trailer or mobile home is a blessing, but remember it's for cooking only. Never use any gas range for heating, whether you're at home or out camping.

TO CLEAN GRILL

Easiest way to clean the grids of your gas grill is in the dishwasher, but don't let them go through the drying cycle. If food particles remain after washing, they will bake on.

Dependable favorites for trap and skeet or field. The Winchester Model 1200 slide action or Model 1400 automatic shotguns consistently put you ahead of the competition . . . or a speeding mallard. Pick up your companion for greater fun and performance in the field.

Owned and operated by Ted Ebert, formerly of Ted's Hot Shot Gun Shop at Union and Bascom Ave., the new store will feature the largest and most complete display of sports equipment in this area. Famous brands will be the leaders on the gun field, camping, back-packing, camp cooking and playground sports.

Gun and Sports Clinics TO BE Featured At Opening

Area sportsmen will be given a rare treat on Saturday, July 10 at Ted's Sports World, 3691 Union Ave. It will mark the occasion of special clinics and gun demonstrations by four of the nation's leading gunsmiths and shooting demonstrators. Another special feature will be demonstrations of preparing and cooking dry foods on a camp stove by a registered dietician. Other demonstrations of athletic and sports equipment will also be featured during the day.

Occasion is the grand opening of Ted Ebert's new Ted's Sports World, this area's first complete all-around sports store. The demonstrations and showings will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 9 p.m., Ebert said.

The gun experts, all nationally recognized for their skills include Al Padell, master gunsmith from Micro-Sight; George Thannisch, also a Micro-Sight master gunsmith; Jim Laggis, Pacific Rep., demonstrating actual reloading of Pacific's new shotgun tools, and Dick Miller, Savage factory expert.

During the clinics, the experts will answer your questions on shotgun reloading or scope problems, or will bore sight your present rifle or mount scopes on your rifle free of charge if the gun is factory drilled.

Of special interest to all campers and back-packers will be the demonstrations on the nutritional value of dried foods and their proper preparation. The Rich Moor Company, one of the pioneers in manufacturing dried foods, will have a complete display and samples of foods normally perishable that now may be made as tasty and healthful as those requiring constant refrigeration.

DON'T GET SOAKED BY A POOL SALESMAN!

Consumer Fraud Experts Warn . .

Swimming Pool Salesmen Will Cheat Americans Out of $15 Million in 1971

READ THIS

We are the builders of the Original Redwood Pools in California

By CHARLES GOLDEN

Americans will be cheated of some $15 million by crooked swimming pool salesmen this year, consumer experts warn — and you could be one of them.

"A bunch of fly-by-night crooks have been going around the country cheating pool buyers who can't afford to be cheated," Merle Dowd, a spokesman for the swimming pool industry, told The ENQUIRER.

"Many of the pools will crack almost before the company removes its tools from the front yard," he cautioned. "They are often set in uneven ground, have worn liners, or poor grade wood and cement."

"Most of them advertise in the television supplements of Sunday papers, offering a pool at a cheap price. But when the buyer answers the ad, a salesman calls and gives him a strong pitch to switch to a more expensive model."

He also told of a man who bought a $5,000 pool that was worth no more than $500. It started to leak almost as soon as it was finished. When he tried to get the company to fix it, he discovered they'd gone out of business, leaving him with a worthless 20-year guarantee.

"Some people have also discovered too late that they signed a second mortgage on their home," he added.

Dowd listed several steps to follow before buying a pool:

- Make the company give you the names of its satisfied customers and check to make sure they are really satisfied.
- Watch out for too many "free deals." It's the mark of a phony. Some promise you a bonus if you build your pool so your neighbors can see it and be enticed to buy. They never come up with the bonus.

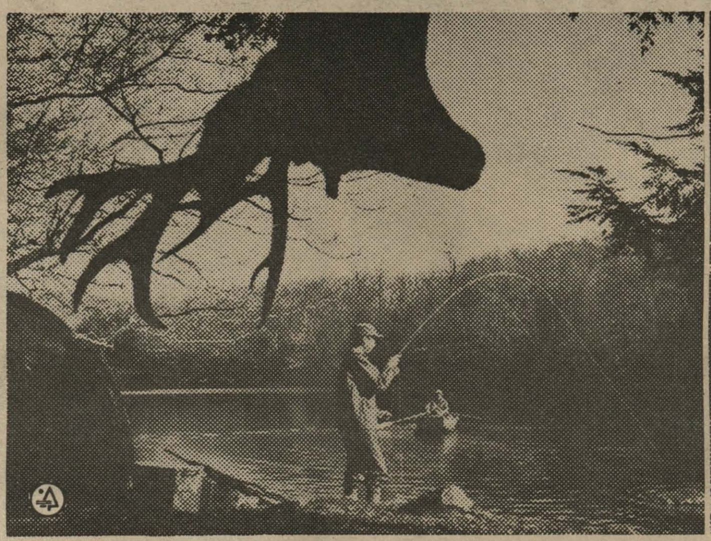
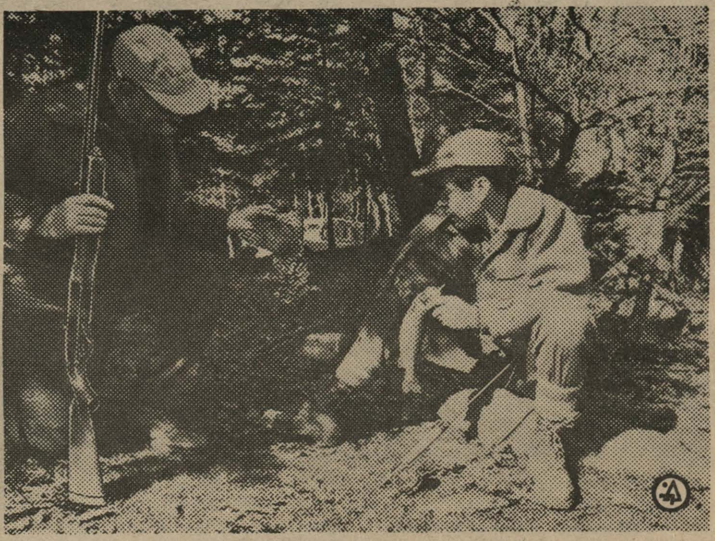
Hunting-Fishing Trips Are Outdoorsmen's Ideal

Combining Both Gives Maximum Enjoyment



This big game hunter, having already gotten his trophy, snags a brook trout as his partner returns to camp.



Upland hunters, too, can enjoy a few hours of fishing after coming in from their day in the fields.

When packing for a hunting trip, most experienced outdoorsmen make a check list to ensure that they are bringing along everything they need for a successful and enjoyable outing. The list usually includes a complete line of camping equipment, outdoor clothing and, of course, their favorite firearms. But, is it complete? Not quite. The smart outdoorsman will also be sure to include his fishing tackle.

Many sportsmen are of the opinion that hunting and fishing are separate seasonal sports and mistakenly store away their fishing gear once the hunting season opens. By doing so, they deprive themselves of the opportunity to get the maximum outdoor enjoyment from their hunting expeditions.

Fine for Fishing

Whatever type of game the hunter is after, chances are his campsite will be pitched on or near water — a stream, river or lake — that will afford fine fishing facilities. And in the fall, when the hunting season begins, weather conditions are often more ideal for fishing than they are during the hot summer months. The cooler, more invigorating water causes the fish to move around more actively and, during this period, they generally feed heavily in preparation for the coming winter.

These conditions are especially suitable to big game hunters who usually limit their hunting to the early morning and late afternoon hours. The "big sky" country, where the deer and the antelope play, is fraught with rivers and streams that are laden with a wide variety of fish. And the best time for taking these fish is during the midday hours when the gunners are relaxing at campsite between their morning and afternoon outings.

Upland Hunters, Too

But, even the upland hunter who spends most of his day out in the field has many opportunities to take advantage of the fishing facilities in his area. After bagging his game and returning to campsite, he can find few better ways of relaxing than testing the local trout fishing with his favorite flyrod.

So, when the next hunting season opens, pack that fishing gear in your hunting bag instead of in the attic.

Hunting Handbook Is Now Available

The "Winchester Hunter's Handbook, 1970-71" is currently available from Winchester Press, 460 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022. This informative 192-page book contains a wealth of useful ballistic and shooting data, including material on shotshell, rim fire and center fire ballistics, specifications on chokes, scopes and shot sizes, range tables for sighting in, cartridge recommendations for various game and a glossary of shooting terms, plus hunting information and game regulations for 50 states and Canada. Single copies are $1.95 and copies in quantity are available at discount rates.

Camp Cook Likes Her Gas Range

A holiday in the great outdoors needn't mean constant cookouts. This homemaker, vacationing in a trailer, cooks Dad's daily catch of fish on a modern gas range fueled by LP gas.

Warm Pool Can Stretch Swim Season

Do you swim in spite of the weather or because of it?

A well designed pool heating system can stretch or even double the swimming season. There are two types: continuous and intermittent. The first holds water at the desired temperature for the full season.

But intermittent pool heaters can save 30 percent of fuel costs or more.

Experts advise heating the water only when the pool is in use. And buy a heater carefully sized to your pool, they say, explaining that the extra cost of a heater that's large enough for your pool will soon be made up by lower fuel costs.

An accurate temperature control is a must, as fuel bills can increase up to ten percent when water temperature rises one degree.

Natural gas pool heaters maintain water temperature accurately, A.G.A. says.

The average family cooking outdoors on a gas grill will use one or two 20-pound cylinders of LP gas during the summer.

CAMPING PAMPHLET

"Backpacking," a U.S. Forest Service Publication, is an excellent guide for the adventurer seeking freedom found in no other type of wilderness travel. The 25-cent, 28-page pamphlet tells you the areas to visit, how to travel, the equipment to take, what to wear, and gives you tips on packing, sanitation, making camp and the type meals to prepare.

HOW ABOUT THIS!

Did you know that it would take you about 95 years to visit all of our National Forests and enjoy their recreation opportunities, natural wonders, scenery and historical sites? And that's even if you spent the entire year camping, staying at each campground just for a week!

High performance, low pollution boating for pleasure-craft sailors is now made possible due to engine modifications of racing boat motors. Fast fun rigs like this one, powered by a Johnson V-125 stock outboard, make for exciting pleasure boating.

Boating appeals to Americans of all ages, as these two lovely young ladies illustrate. And there's a type of boat to fit everyone's wants — and pocketbooks. Just do a little smart shopping at your local marine dealer and you're sure to find a boat-and-motor combination just right for you.

Thinking About Getting Into Boating—Here's How To Do It

Thinking about getting into boating? Bewildered by the problem of choosing between prams, dinghies, runabouts, cruisers, houseboats and sailboats in a puzzling variety of sizes, shapes, colors, materials and, of course, prices? Frightened by your friends and neighbors salty talk of burgees, flag codes, rules of the road navigational calculations?

Don't be.

Getting started right in boating is easy if you first ask yourself a few simple questions and then seek advice from experienced boat owners and a qualified marine dealer. The Johnson Motors News Bureau suggests that before you shop for a boat you and your family answer the following questions:

1. WHY DO WE WANT A BOAT? For fishing? Cruising? Water skiing?
2. WHERE WILL WE USE OUR BOAT? On a small lake? Large lake? On a river? In the ocean?
3. WHO WILL USE OUR BOAT? The whole family? Guests? The children? Together? Separately? All at once?
4. WHEN WILL WE USE OUR BOAT? On weekends? Summer vacations? For day cruises? For long trips? Daily?
5. WHERE WILL WE STORE OUR BOAT? In the garage or yard? At our own waterfront slip or boat house? At a marina or yacht club?
6. HOW MUCH CAN WE AFFORD TO SPEND? For the boat and motor? For a trailer? For fuel, storage and maintenance?

Once you've answered these questions your chances of getting started right in boating are greatly improved.

But before you actually start shopping take a good look at the types of boats that are most popular on the waterways where you will do most of your boating. Talk to friends, neighbors and even strangers.

The Johnson people offer the following clues for identifying qualified, reliable dealers: reputation with customers, good selection of top quality national and regional brand name products, good parts and service facilities.

Take the answers to your personal boating questions to these qualified marine dealers and they will get you started right in boating whether you need a 12-foot car top fishing boat with a 2½ hp outboard, a racy ski boat with an 85 horse engine, or an ocean-going cruiser or houseboat with a pair of 125s.

Nearly all good marine dealers are enthusiastic boaters themselves. They want you to get started right in boating because they know that people who start right usually become boaters (and good customers) for life.

Still worried about those burgees, flag codes, rules of the road and navigational calculations your salty friends bandy about? You can catch up with them quickly by enrolling in the free boating courses offered by the United States Power Squadrons and the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary in your area.

★ ★ ★

There's a good chance that if you are reading this you were one of the 44 million who went boating in 1970.

If not, and you're feeling the urge, here, starting at the left, is help in how to join in what the industry calls "the nation's top family sport."

Boating is a big boost to the national economy with nearly 3.5 billion dollars circulating around it.

Participation of retired folks was up 13.3 percent in 1970. Greatest increase came from the middle-aged group—the family group—reports Johnson Motors News Service, a department of the company that makes the Sea Horse line of outboards.

Pleasure boating, 1971 style, is for everyone — no matter where they live, or what their budget may be. Whether trying their early morning fishing luck off Chicago, like these men here, or relaxing on some secluded lake in the Great Outdoors, pleasure boating has won the hearts of more than 44 million Americans.

Modern Outboard Motor 'Paragon Of Efficiency' in Pollution Battle

At least two of the major manufacturers of outboard motors are making significant contributions to reducing air and water pollution.

At a recent seminar for the country's top boating writers, it was shown that the modern outboard motor is the paragon of internal combustion efficiency—which means clean exhaust.

Emissions from a Johnson 50 horsepower outboard, as monitored during a one-mile pollution test, amounted to two ounces. That's four tablespoons in a housewife's terminology. To a bartender, it's a shot of booze.

Evidence that outboard motor makers are involved in the environmental fight is shown by appointment this past year of Howard Larson, Outboard Marine Corporation Vice President for Environmental Affairs. OMC is the parent company to the Johnson Motors Division of Waukegan, Illinois.

How to Have Your Boat and Live In It Too—Wave of Future

You can have your boat and live in it, too. This delightful fact, says the Johnson Motors News Bureau, is the secret behind one of the most impressive growth trends in boating.

From disreputable beginnings as ungainly and unseaworthy "shanties of the shoreline" houseboats have evolved into smart, seagoing vacation homes.

The houseboat turnabout is clearly illustrated by sales figures. In 1963 only 500 houseboats were sold in the entire U.S.A. By 1969 the annual houseboat sales figure had zoomed to 4,000. The U.S. houseboat fleet now numbers 14,000 and is expected to grow much larger during the next decade.

Keys to the growth of houseboating are rapid development of attractively decorated and furnished living areas equipped with modern appliances, dramatic improvement in hull designs, and the development of efficient high-horsepower outboard motors and stern-drive engines to propel them.

By shedding their Ma and Pa Kettle appearance and unseaworthy bargelike bottoms, modern houseboats have attracted families who want to have their vacation or retirement home and their dream boat all in one neat package.

The appeals of a houseboat are obvious: room, comfort, stability, low operating cost. Add the bonus of an efficient, powerful outboard and you can understand why houseboating, outboard style, is become so popular on recreational waterways across the U.S.

Houseboats still feature big cabins, wide picture windows, and lots of living space and head room inside.

But now they have modern planing hulls — vees, cathedrals and catamarans — that make them nimble enough to compete in rugged offshore races. No kidding! Several have entered and completed the Bahama 500, one of oceandom's toughest competitions. One, equipped with a 115 hp outboard, won a recent Mississippi River marathon.

These developments have turned boating's ugly duckling into a beautiful swan. Technology has yet to solve the classic problem of having your cake and eating it, too. But boating has made it possible to have your boat and live in it, too. No wonder Americans are taking up houseboating in rapidly increasing numbers.

Sees Big Year For Boating

Pleasure boating is well on its way to another record-breaking year, according to Dwight Kelsey, owner of Vallcraft Marine at 3071 Monterey Road. "We're selling our Johnson and Chrysler outboard motors as fast as we can get them from the factories," Kelsey said. "Our boats, too, have been going like hotcakes all spring", he added.

Vallcraft Marine, established by Kelsey in 1957, has grown to the point where it is the area's leading dealer in boats and outboard motors. This growth has resulted in the company moving three times since it was originally established. Its present location on Monterey Road provides both more display space and space for expanded parts and repair departments.

Although Vallcraft has handled everything from dinghys to large cabin cruisers, they have kept adding to their line of boats. Most recent to join the Vallcraft family is the famous old line of Thompson Boats, manufactured in Peshtigo, Wis., since 1904. They now feature a full line of fiberglass boats for both stern drive or outboard, at home on the ocean or in inland waterways.

Other lines include the Chrysler, Seaflite, Crestliner and several other makes, each geared for a particular purpose. In the motor line, Vallcraft features Johnsons from 1½ horsepower to 115 or more. They also handle complete accessories, including Norcal, Vanson and Dilly trailers.

Here's Help in . . .

CHOOSING OUTBOARD

Selecting an outboard motor to go with that new boat you just bought isn't as easy as many believe. Just about everyone has advice for you, from your next-door neighbor to the local marina operator.

Here are a few generally accepted tips on choosing that new engine, from Johnson Motors, the boating people.

- Don't pick an outboard too large or too small for the boat. Most boats on the market today exhibit a "certification" plate, with the maximum engine horsepower prominently displayed. Never exceed, or go too far below, that recommendation.
- Consider how the motor will be used. There's no need for a powerful V-115 outboard if you're just going to use it for slow fishing or family cruising, for instance.
- Of course, the initial cost and operating expenses of the engine must not be ignored. Examine the warranty. A two-year warranty, backed by a reputable dealer and a manufacturer with a reputation for dependability, should be just as much a factor in the decision as the retail price of the motor itself.

With today's wide selection of outboard power on the market, from a mini-motor 1½ to giant V-4 prop-spinners turning out 115-horsepower, there's sure to be an outboard that's just perfect for your boat.

Don't be afraid to ask for help from a reputable outboard dealer.

DARTING AROUND

with Tom Carroll

English darters are noted for their charity matches. One team from Coventry led by Terry Doyle has raised enough money from exhibition matches to buy 20 guide dogs for the blind. Other benefit matches have raised money for other needy causes.

Recently a benefit tournament was held at the Gaslighter Theater for dart player Ted Allen. Ted was seriously injured in a motorcycle accident several weeks ago and has been confined to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Palo Alto.

Ted played for the Championship Gaslighter Theater I team that moved to the Scarlett La Rue's in Los Gatos for the spring season of play. After Ted's accident the team went on to win the South Bay League Championship, but was eased out of the East Bay Divisional title.

Fourteen doubles pairs were entered with participants coming from San Francisco and El Cerrito. The entry fee was a donation of the players choice, but not less than a dollar. Several players who couldn't make the competition sent their donation along.

Over $100 was received. In addition, Don and Faye Cupp, proprietors of the Gaslighter Theater, tossed in 50% of the afternoon's bar receipts.

THE COMPETITION

The team of Phil Albers and Tom Patton got things off to a sizzling start. Phil, who shoots for the Dutch Goose in Menlo Park, shot a 146 away. He hit the double 16, then laid the next two darts in the triple 19. Tom Patton backed him up with a 140 and a 105. Tom captains the Primrose Lanes I team that played for the Falstaff Cup. Needless to say they beat their opponents Marv Wernli and John Burke from Harold's Club in Redwood City.

Tom Lawrence, president of the Northern California Darts Assn., teamed with Rick Miller, vice-president, to defeat the Albers-Patton combination. Although Tom Patton got started with an 88 away and Phil Albers followed with the high score of the afternoon, a 168, Lawrence and Miller managed to hit their out, first. That 168 was three triples, 19, 17 and 20 in that order. The Pres and the Veep went on to finish, third with the Veep hitting a 140.

Larry Beekley of the Lord Nelson in San Francisco was consistent in his starts with a 96 away, a 92 away and a 112 away. Scotty Hamilton of the LaRue's hit a 101 with Carl Aydelotte of the Gaslighter Reruns and Ron Rutherford of the Primrose Lanes Banshees hitting tons (100's).

The final match for first place was between the father and son team of Ben and Jim Macredes and the team of Kip Fanjoy and Dave Pena. All four players are teammates of the injured Ted Allen. Jim Macredes and Dave Pena both popped 140's during the course of the afternoon. The Northern California Darts Assn. Doubles Champion Macredes took this tournament, also. But, the real winner was Ted Allen.

Gas Grill Easy To Use and Keep Clean

One of the best things about a modern gas grill, the American Gas Association reports, is that it practically takes care of itself.

To keep your grill clean and sparkling, after each use leave the top open and turn the control to "high" for about 15 minutes to burn the grease drippings from the briquettes.

Clean the grid or rack with hot, sudsy water and rinse it while it is still warm from use. After several uses, turn the briquettes over, and clean the inside of the grill as needed.

Guest Editor Clare Conley Says . . .

Camping is Now Basically An All-Family Activity

By CLARE CONLEY
Editor, Field & Stream

★ ★ ★

Clare Conley, our Guest Editor, attended the College of Idaho and Stanford University and after graduation went to work for newspapers.

For seven years he was a free lance magazine author and photographer. In 1961 he moved from Idaho to New York to become assistant editor of FIELD & STREAM. Five years later he became the head of the editorial department of the magazine, a favorite of outdoorsmen.

Mr. Conley was listed as an Outstanding Young Man of America in 1965 and as the Outstanding Young Alumnus of the College of Idaho.

He is a private pilot and flies extensively in connection with his work.

A decade ago when I flew in to New York City from the West to interview for a job on the Field & Stream editorial staff, one of the questions that the publisher of the magazine asked me was, "What do you think will be the next area of interest in the outdoors shown by the American public?"

Naturally, I replied that I thought it would be camping, and this must have been what the publisher thought, because I got the job and have stayed on to become editor of the magazine, and camping went on to become one of the biggest activities participated in by Americans in the outdoors rivalled only by fishing.

Adding a Few Thoughts

During that decade I have seen hundreds of articles devoted to various aspects of camping and many in one way or another get around to explaining as best they can why camping suddenly became so popular, but I'd like to add a few thoughts on that subject in the light of today's living, because, after all, camping not only became popular, but stayed that way.

Although it may have seemed in many parts of the United States that camping suddenly became popular, actually it had been in use in many areas all along. However, with the beginning of the 1960's camping moved from an activity that was an adjunct to other things, such as hunting and fishing, to become a family activity of its own.

The reason for this was that Americans had become more mobile, wealthier and had more free time, but there was one other element that is often ignored.

North Americans are close-tied to the outdoors and feel a strong need to get away from a city atmosphere as often and as long as possible to regenerate themselves. This manifests itself in the desire to travel and see the United States, plus touring Canada and Mexico too.

Basic to Character

Although it's an overused phrase, camping brought an improved standard of living. Camping represented a basic element in the character of Americans to return to rustic living. It provided a means of changing the everyday settings of their lives and seeing a broader part of the world around them.

The constant improvement in camping equipment has been a second reason that camping has stayed popular. Today campers can have just about any degree of comfort and luxury that they choose.

For those who still want to communicate with nature on the rustic level, there is tenting, but even in this improvements have come to provide materials that are lighter and more water resistant; tents that practically erect themselves, eliminating tent stakes and ropes, and tents that have floors and zipper flaps. Sleeping bags and camp cooking equipment also have been equally improved.

Closer to Elements

But all this has been done without removing that factor of camping, which many people desire — that of being close to the elements.

By contrast, one of the biggest growth areas in camping has been in pickup campers and coaches, camping trailers, and small trailer houses. These, of course, offer comforts and conveniences almost equal to that of any home.

What this all amounts to is that the continual improvement, both in design and materials of equipment for camping, has been a factor in making the activity widely popular, because it satisfies the desires of all kinds of people.

Finally, I believe the fact that camping is basically a family activity has been a strong reason for its lasting popularity. In today's modern scene, particularly around cities, the pressures of modern living tend to pull families apart, giving the members little time to be together.

Camping has just the opposite effect. It tends to bring the family together because it takes them away from their everyday lives and moves them to a new setting as a family unit, and because it takes them away from the pressures that pull them apart at home.

I can remember camping as a child on fishing trips with the family; I can remember camping through western Canada with two college friends in an old wreck car, and again camping with my wife in Canada on our honeymoon.

Later I camped in the Arctic in both hemispheres, at the bottom of the Grand Canyon, near a lake 10,000 feet high, under the wing of my plane, and where the only way to reach camp was by boat.

They were all great. It's just being there that counts. I guess there is just something about camping that can't be explained.

Take Nothing But Pictures, Leave Nothing But Footprints

"Take nothing but pictures, leave nothing but footprints" is the National Park Service's advice to the millions of visitors to America's 34 national parks.

It is also the philosophy behind the new publication "Kodak Guide To America's National Parks." The words are appropriate, because the book describes how pictures can help visitors remember the wonder and beauty of the parks, share these memories with family and friends and leave the parks unmarked for the millions who follow in their "footsteps."

The soft-cover book is the result of a team-up between Michael Frome, noted conservation and travel writer, and the photographic experts of the Eastman Kodak Company. It provides readers with a vivid description of the wonders of nature and how best to record them on film.

Frome directs you to the most picturesque areas of the parks, and passes along his knowledge of their history and special attractions. He points out views, rock formations, plants, animals and other park features that you will want to include in the picture story of your visit.

The book includes maps of the parks, tips on how to make your pictures most interesting and colorful, and 32 pages of color photographs.

The 128-page book can be obtained from Kodak dealers everywhere, or by sending $1.50 to "Kodak Guide America's National Parks," P.O. Box 9799, St. Paul, Minnesota 55177.

Perfect game for Colt pitcher

June 29, 1971 will be remembered by a select group of people for a long time. It will always be important to Jay Gingrich, a 16-year-old Branham High Sophomore, who this summer is playing on the Campbell Colt League team.

The reason for all this excitement is that Jay pitched a PERFECT game to give Campbell a 2-0 win over Prospect. In the seven inning game he faced 21 batters: struck out ten, fielded one fly ball, assisted in three put-outs, and allowed only three fly balls out of the infield.

Gingrich has allowed only two earned runs in the 37 innings he has pitched this summer. He has six wins to one loss. On June 14 he missed a no-hitter by one; this in the seventh - but got a shut-out over Saratoga.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS

Deadline for entries in the 4-H and Future Farmers of America (FFA) divisions for the 27th Annual Santa Clara County Fair, is 5 p.m., Friday, July 9, according to William A. Straub, secretary-manager of the fair.

Categories for entry in 4-H and FFA divisions are: Livestock, poultry and rabbits; home economics; and agriculture/horticulture and miscellaneous. Miscellaneous entries are in areas such as photography, entomology, forestry and wildlife.

Qualifications for entry include belonging to a Santa Clara County Chapter of the 4-H or FFA.

The Danish system of judging, in which more than one entry can win first, second and third places, prevails throughout all categories.

Although the deadline for 4-H and FFA entries is July 9, exhibits are not to be brought to the Fairgrounds until August 9 through 11, said Straub. At this time entries will be judged and readied for display during the Fair, August 13-22.

Exhibits will be on display in both Fiesta Hall and the livestock Judging Rings all 10 days of the Santa Clara County Fair.
